FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Library of Congress FCU to be an Exhibitor at 2022 ALA Annual Conference

(HYATTSVILLE, MD) – Library of Congress Federal Credit Union is proud to be an exhibitor at the American Library Association 2022 Annual Conference.

“We look forward to reconnecting with America’s library community in person at the ALA’s largest event,” said Marsha King, CEO of Library of Congress FCU. “We believe the library community advances America’s great story and we are proud to be an exhibitor.”

This year’s conference will be held June 23-28 at the Washington Convention Center in Washington D.C. featuring thought leaders, celebrity speakers, hundreds of education sessions, and more than 500 exhibitors in the Library Marketplace. Attendees who stop by Booth 2813 will have an opportunity to meet Library of Congress FCU representatives and learn more about how the Credit Union can help them live their best financial life story.

Library of Congress Federal Credit Union (lcfcu.org) has proudly served America's library community since 1935. With assets of $298 million and serving over 9,500 members nationwide, Library of Congress FCU is here to advance the financial life story of Library of Congress employees, retirees, family members and American Library Association members.

American Library Association (ala.org) is the foremost national organization providing resources to inspire library and information professionals to transform their communities through essential programs and services. For more than 140 years, the ALA has been the trusted voice for academic, public, school, government and special libraries, advocating for the profession and the library’s role in enhancing learning and ensuring access to information for all.
